An Orvis Guide To First Aid For Sporting Dogs (Orvis Guides)

Synopsis

The Orvis Guide to First Aid For Sporting Dogs is written by well-known sporting dog veterinarian Chuck Divinnie of Peterborough, NH, an avid wingshooter who knows what to expect when you take your dog into the field or on the marsh. The Orvis Guide to First Aid For Sporting Dogs is an invaluable guide to preventing the chance of injury and treating accidental injury promptly and properly when it does occur in the field. Lavishly illustrated with photographs and line drawings, chapters include "Treating Snake Bites," "ACL Ruptures," "Eye Injuries," "Stemming a Severed Artery," "How to Make an Emergency Tourniquet," "Blood Loss & Shock," "Overheating & Dehydration," "Hypothermia," "Throat Obstructions," "Gunshot Wounds & Pellet Removal," "Hunting Over the Older Dog," and much more. Also included is important advice on nutrition for the health of your dog during hunting season. The guide also includes a detailed explanation of what a field dog first aid kit should contain. Every field dog owner should slip this guide into his or her pocket every time he takes his dog into the field or marsh. This book may save your canine companion's life.

Customer Reviews

Dr. Chuck Devinne's concise and clearly written book on first aid for sporting and hunting dogs is a boon for those who love little more than spending time in the field with their dogs. In to the point language -- and with abundant clear photos and instructive illustrations-- Dr. Devinne (a noted New Hampshire veterinarian and world champion sporting clays competitor) has done a tremendous job producing a book which is easy to transport, easy to read and easy to follow for quick and life savings remedies in the field for your dog. Thanks, Doc! After me, you're my dog's best friend!

Great info in a handy little book. Small enough and light enough to carry in your shirt pocket while hunting.

If you hunt, just buy it. There is something in it you will need.
